Friday was opening day for the Appomattox County headquarters for Byrd-Abbitt supporters. These volunteers and others will be greeting visitors at the former doctors' offices (Fratrick and Mathews) in the building next to the Post Office, Court Street. Posters, bumber stickers and pamplets are offered in support of Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr. and Representative Watkins M. Abbitt, both seeking re-election in November. County chairman is Dr. Mark Weatherly (at right) standing with Ivey Holland and (from left) Mrs. Roger Norfleet, Mrs. Walter Carson, Susan Weatherly and Charles Norfleet. As the sign says: "Come in – Welcome." Phone number is 352-6711.

Byrd Speaks Out

RICHMOND—U.S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. has launched his campaign for reelection with a warning that the trend toward a welfare state cannot be reversed by increasing welfare.

Byrd, running as an independent, said in several campaign appearances that he has major reservations about the Nixon administration's welfare reform bill. He said that he expressed these reservations to President Nixon on his visit to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif. early this month.

The bill, including a guaranteed annual wage of $1,600 is before the Senate Finance Committee, of which Byrd, elected as a Democrat, is a member.

Byrd's views on the pending welfare bill, which would jump the present $4.4 billion annual Federal welfare cost to $11.8 billion in two years, were among the major issues which he discussed in several appearances this week and last. His schedule has taken him to Manchester High School in Chesterfield County, where a crowd of more than 800 supporters drove through a blinding rainstorm to cheer him, Boydton, South Hill, Emporia, Courtland, Franklin, Norfolk and Blacksburg.

Byrd (D-Va.) said his reelection "depends on the support and activity of individual citizens."

He said, "My course as an independent is a difficult and unprecedented one. But I welcome the opportunity to take my Senate record directly to all of the people of our State."

Last March he announced he would not enter the 1970 Democratic primary, because he refused to sign a loyalty oath pledging him to support the Democratic candidate for President in 1972.

The oath to which Byrd referred was imposed by the Democratic State Central Committee Feb. 21. After Senator Byrd made an issue of it, the oath requirement was repealed on May 2, too late for Byrd to file for the Democratic primary.

A public hearing will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 by the Appomattox Town Council and the Appomattox County Planning Commission concerning proposed changes to the Town of Appomattox Zoning Ordinance. The changes involve sections of Burke and Linden Streets and South Church St., from R-1 to R-2 and the inclusion of "Parks and Playgrounds" in Business B-1& Industrial M-1.

7-Man Board Appointed To Development Authority

Appomattox County supervisors at the Friday meeting appointed seven directors to an Industrial Development Authority.

The county set up the Industrial Development Authority by ordinance approved in August.

The Industrial Development Authority is set up under the Industrial Development and Revenue Bond Act passed by the General Assembly of Va. in 1966 and amended in 1968. Generally speaking, the Act permits the financing of industrial projects through the issuance of tax free revenue bonds without any financial obligation on the part of the county.

Named to the board are Eugene Carson, Ralph Reynolds, Wm. C. Dudley, Roy Lucado, T. DeWitt Evans, Floyd Eggleston and Dr. C. G. O'Brien.

J. Danny Simpson and J. W. Canada were appointed by the board to serve as Appomattox County representatives to the Central Virginia Air Pollution Control Committee.

The supervisors discussed latest developments in proposals to improve and expand facilities at Holliday Lake Recreational Area.

Mrs. Aldah Gordon, clerk, read a letter from state senator, James W. Davis, pledging his support and interest in the project. Senator Davis enclosed a letter from Ben H. Bolen, Commissioner, Dept. of Conservation and Economic Development which states "The Virginia Outdoors Plan for the expansion and improvement of the State Park System calls for the enlargement of the Holliday Lake Recreational Area into a full-blown State park with many additional facilities.

"Holliday Lake is a most popular recreational facility and if we can budget funds to expand it into a large State park, I feel sure it will contribute much to the recreational opportunities for local people and draw many tourists to the area."

A public hearing was set for October for the Trailer and Mobile Home Ordinance approved by the board. The hearing will be the first item of business on Friday morning at 9, Oct. 9, regular meeting date for the supervisors.

Supervisors also voted to publish a resolution of appreciation to T. DeWitt Evans for his many years of service and many contributions to the progress of the public school system as chairman of the Appomattox County School Board. Mr. Evans declined to offer his name as board member for another term due to the conflict of interest law passed by the Va. General Assembly. Mrs. T. D. Evans is an instructor in the system.

Two attorneys from Lynchburg, David Petty and E. T. Hopgood appeared before the board to ask that Appomattox County join with Lynchburg, Campbell and Amherst counties in a cooperative Legal Aid Society to help person unable to obtain legal services through other means. This matter was continued.

Board Tours School Facilities

As part of their continuing study of the public schools of the county members of the Appomattox County School board toured the Materials Center on Rt. 460 and looked into classrooms, gym and auditorium at Appomattox County High School as the conclusion of the business session of their regular monthly meeting Friday. The board complimented Supt. Earl Smith (2nd from right) on the evidence of care and upkeep of the high school facilities. At the same time they voiced concern about over-crowding of some departments, notably the cafeteria, business, and science departments. Major W. W. Wallis is in charge of the materials center.
